

JAMES VAN COURT PASSES AWAY WEDNESDAY MORNING

Respected Pioneer Resident of Redwood City Goes to Rest After Life Time of Useful Helpfulness; Was Great Friend of the Young

James E. Van Court is dead. He passed to his reward Thursday morning at 5:45. He was a native of New Jersey, aged 80 years. The above is the life history of a man who has meant much in the life history of every boy and girl who has grown up in Redwood City during the past forty years.

Personally, I can remember James Van Court since my earliest days. He came across the isthmus with his parents in 1859 and settled in San Francisco. He learned the photographic business with Shuey, one of the old time photographers of San Francisco. Late in the 70's he bought a place for his father and mother in Belmont. After a short residence there he came to Redwood City and built a studio on the corner of what is now Main and Center streets.

Soon afterward he built a home for his parents and moved to town. He took pictures of everything and everybody. There never was a time, however, when he was not doing something for someone. He didn't have any regard for money and often was in hard straits, but he was always cheerful. He built an addition on to his home so that the boys and girls might have a club house in which to spend the winter evenings. He provided fuel and

With the room packed to overflowing the Supervisors of San Mateo county last Monday went into executive session with Frank Webb, District Attorney Swart and City Attorney Mansfield. For two hours the members of the board deliberated the matter of granting a franchise for the construction of a bridge across the bay. Finally the secret meeting adjourned and the supervisors took their regular places at their desks.

Chairman Thompson said that Mr. Webb had an announcement to make and Webb announced to the waiting crowd that the supervisors had granted him a franchise. No announcement was made by the supervisors. It is said that the franchise granted to Webb provides that a similar franchise can be granted to any other person by the board if they so desire.

The East Side Highway was discussed at the same meeting. Supervisors Welsh and Hayden of San Francisco and Secretary Mason of the Civic League of Improvement Clubs being present and engaging in the discussion.

NEIGHBORS OF WOODCRAFT HOLD PUBLIC INSTALLATION

Thursday evening, January 18th, Robinson Circle, No. 517, entertained about 150 guests at their annual installation of officers. A goodly number from Palo Alto circle were present to view the impressive work which was put on by Captain Laura Walker and her guards.

Much praise is due the installing officer, Gertrude Jones, for her splendid and efficient work. After the new officers were seated a short program was enjoyed by all. A piano solo by Inez Jamieson; vocal solo by Mrs. Zimmerman and Mrs. Sharkey; and a reading by Mrs. Polton were enjoyed by all, after which about 20 card tables were set and the crowd played whist, at which Gertrude Jones was declared the winner. The grand march was then played and the guests marched to the banquet hall, where a sumptuous repast was served.

PESCADERO PEBBLES

After an indisposition of several days, Earl Williamson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williamson, is convalescing nicely. To determine the number of Earl's friends whom this good news will elate it would be necessary to count every head in this party of the county.

Tuesday evening a regular meeting of the Pescadero Community Center was held in the auditorium of the Center building. Final preparations for the whist party were arranged for by a committee headed by Mrs. Williamson. Plans were also laid for a minstrel show to be given February 21, made up of a cast of Center talent. This event will, undoubtedly, be received with interest in dramatics hereabouts. It is hoped that the show will mark a revival in some measure of the local legitimate play. People everywhere seem to be longing for green plays, and are longing for a return to the spoken drama, and of all the spoken drama, perhaps none is so welcome these days as that which calls for the displays of real local players.

At 1:10 a. m. Tuesday the comparatively light sleepers of the community experienced what is probably the year's first earthquake in these parts. It was a distinct tremor of perhaps five seconds duration, and of sufficient violence to bring back to those who are old enough to remember and were properly located at the time, one April morning 1906, and reminiscences are being swapped as a consequence.

Hymen is getting in a stroke here and there among the young people as evidenced in the report of the marriage of Miss Delphina Brazil and Joe Azevedo sometime during the past week; and the second happy instance of the kind wherein Miss Mary Tocata becomes the bride of one of her compatriots or whatever they call 'em over there. Mary will be remembered by many who knew her during her school-days in Pescadero.

Death again stole into our midst and marked for his own the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Garcia, esteemed members of this community. The precious youngster was but five months old, and is lamented by prospective parents. The burial took place Monday at the Pescadero cemetery.

At present writing a heavy storm is putting another punctuation mark in our wonderful winter weather; and it is worth while noting that when it blows here along the coast, it simply blows, leaving no one in doubt about it—it blows with sublime candor. But that's one of the Coast's genuine attractions, not to be swapped for all the listless, balmy days characteristic of the valley.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY
Last Saturday night was the occasion of a jolly party at the F. E. George home on Stambaugh street in honor of the thirty-first anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. George. The following guests were present:

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. H. Potts, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. McNulty, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Rice, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Jamison, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lipp, Mr. and Mrs. K. S. Murray, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Lockyer, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Townsend, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. George, Mesdames Mary Winter, Emma Winter, Annie Bullivant and Daisy Kreiss, Miss Ruby George and Messrs. J. A. McPherson and J. J. Morrison.

Several games of cards were enjoyed and prizes were won by the following: Mrs. H. W. Jamison, Mrs. Mary Winter, T. C. Rice and C. H. Lockyer. The consolation prizes were carried off by W. H. Lipp and Mrs. Harry Potts. Mr. and Mrs. George were given a present appropriate to the occasion, together with many wishes for a happy return of the anniversary.

SEeks TO QUIET TITLE
Attorney James T. O'Keefe has instituted proceedings before the Superior Court to quiet title to a number of lots bought at tax sales held at various times in this county.

BAY SHORE BOULEVARD

District Attorney Franklin Swart has rendered an opinion concerning the construction of the Bay Shore East Side Highway. Mr. Swart believes that it would be unwise for San Mateo County to proceed under the statute of 1921 and points out that the road should be built under the Joint Highway District plan which is provided by law. Under this method of procedure San Francisco would undertake the construction of a certain portion of the highway and San Mateo County would be responsible for another section. With the bridge eliminated from the plan of the East Side Highway, Mr. Swart can see no reason why the plan has outlined should not be followed.

Mrs. John Gill entertained the Eastern Star Bowling Club at her home on Avondale avenue last Thursday. A large number attended and a good time was had by all.

NEWSY NOTES OF LOCAL INTEREST

J. C. Robb of San Mateo and Jas. R. Murphy, city clerk of Burlingame, spent Tuesday in Redwood City.

H. E. Griffith, well known coast side editor, was in Redwood City on business Wednesday.

Mrs. Mary Snow has been in Redwood City all this week visiting her friend, Mrs. Fannie Lovie. Mrs. Snow is one of the old timers and resided in Redwood City for over twenty years before she moved to San Francisco, where she now makes her home.

Lawrence Cahill, Sr., of Laguna, was in Redwood City Monday greeting friends. Mr. Cahill is one of the pioneers of San Mateo county and has seen this section grow from a mere half full to be one of the most populous sections of the state.

John Machado, who on Monday began the practice of law in San Jose was in town Thursday attending to legal business. Mr. Machado says that prospects of a fine business in San Jose are already opening for him.

The officers of George S. Evans, Women of the Relief Corps, will be installed in their respective offices next Monday evening. The installation will be held in Odd Fellows hall.

Mrs. Carol Verian and her daughter, Carol, will move to San Rafael next Monday to remain for several months.

RUNNYMEDE NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Strankey of Oakland who purchased three acres in the O'Connor tract, are building a beautiful home. Their son is attending the poultry school at the Week's Ranch and the family plan to handle poultry as well as berries.

Mrs. E. Martindale of San Francisco was a guest at the A. E. Martindale home Friday.

Mrs. E. R. Lam's father, Wm. Becker; her brother, George Becker, and his son, Billy, all of San Francisco are spending a few days at the E. R. Lam home.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Averill of Seattle, Washington, were guest at the Romes home last week. He is a brother of Mrs. Romes.

Blanche Vanthuyne was a visitor in San Francisco Sunday.

Wm. Crews, Mrs. White, Mrs. C. A. House and Miss Nora Nickerson were guests at the Nickerson home Sunday.

Miss Lillian Haskey who has been in the hospital, is able to be brought to her sister's home.

A marriage license was issued last week to Marie Collins and Elmer Brooks. Miss Collins was a resident of Runnymede until last fall, and a graduate of the Palo Alto High School. The Collins family now live in Redwood, Southern California.

Mrs. J. D. Mant left Thursday for Los Angeles to spend a few weeks with her daughter and family.

Mrs. C. N. Strawn was a passenger to the city Thursday.

The committee in charge of the minstrel were San Francisco visitors Thursday, going up to bring home the costumes needed for the entertainment.

The Darktown Bubble Minstrels who are giving an entertainment Saturday evening under the auspices of the Woman's Club, the proceeds of which will be used to buy chairs for the auditorium, have given two hours of fun for everyone who attends. An orchestra will furnish music and a social time will follow the program with an opportunity for dance lovers to try the new floor.

X VICTIM OF HEART TROUBLE
Catherine Santo, wife of Louis Santo and a resident of the tract just south of Redwood City on the Midfield road, died suddenly last Tuesday night of heart trouble. Mrs. Santo was thirty-seven years of age and leaves three small children. The funeral will be held today from the parlors of Layne & Tinney, from thence to Mt. Carmel Catholic church.

The ladies of St. Mary's Guild of the Episcopal church will hold a food sale at Tucker's furniture store on Broadway next Saturday, February 4th.

Do you like to play cards? Watch the columns of this paper for the date. The Neighbors of Woodcraft will give a big card party in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Martens of San Francisco were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Caswell Sweet over the week end.

Jas. Bradshaw of the faculty of Sequoia High referred the basketball game at Stanford Saturday night between the Stanford Frosh and Sacramento High School.

Edwin William, principal of the Pescadero High School, visited Redwood City friends last week. Mr. William played with the Redwood City basketball team while he was a student at Stanford.

Mrs. Sam T. Ferguson came up from Long Beach last week and will remain in Redwood City for some time as the guest of her sister, Mrs. Lila Murch.

The Dumbarton Bridge Association is advertising elsewhere in this paper its intention to ask for a franchise to construct a bridge across the bay at Dumbarton Point. This is a step in the right direction, and we wish them all success in their venture.

The Misses Hazel and Mildred Lamb have cancelled their San Francisco engagement for one in Los Angeles as the weather is warmer, and they will stay there until April when they will come north. They continue to draw a tremendous ovation at every performance.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL TERM TO START

The Redwood City Grammar School will start its new spring term next Monday. Owing to the present crowded condition of the grammar schools of Redwood City and to the fact that a new class will be received into the school, Prof. Monteth, principal of the Grammar school, was forced to adopt a half day schedule for two of the classes in his school. The first grade of the Central school will be taught in the old kindergarten building back of the City hall and will begin at 8:45 a. m. and continue until 12:50 p. m. At 12:55 the receiving grade will meet in the same room and continue until 4:15. Miss Loretta Williams will teach both grades.

Children who are five years and nine months old or over will be admitted to the receiving grade at this time. The kindergarten will continue under the direction of Miss Hamilton and will meet in another room of the same building.

LEAVES FOR HAWAII
Mrs. Frank Wentworth, one of the winners of the Times-Gazette subscription contest, took advantage this week of the trip awarded to her for her efforts in obtaining new subscribers to the paper. Mrs. Wentworth sailed on Tuesday morning on the Oceanic Steamship Company's ship for Honolulu. While in the islands she will visit all the various points of interest which can be taken in on a four weeks' trip. Before sailing Mrs. Wentworth promised to write to the Times-Gazette about her trip, so we can promise some interesting news to our readers in the near future.

MR. AND MRS. P. A. RYAN ENTERTAIN
Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Ryan entertained over a hundred friends at their home on the corner of Hamilton and Marshall streets last Saturday night. The affair was in the nature of a benefit for Mount Carmel Catholic church. What was the order of the evening and a number of beautiful gifts were given to those who had high and low scores. There were twenty-three tables of players and John Layne had charge as chief announcer.

After the card tables were put away refreshments were served by a number of high school girls.

The affair was pleasantly carried through and all who attended had a most enjoyable time.

A PARTY AT TRAHANS
Trahan's new confectionery store on Broadway was the scene last Monday evening of a delightful party when eleven of the lady teachers of Sequoia gathered, there around the festive board, artistically decorated for the occasion. A choice display of fine culinary served to embellish the already decorated tables and many good things to eat added materially to the joy of the party. Those present were the Misses Mildred Proctor, Rose Kelley, Kathryn Boyd, Adeline Gerwin, Irene Bradley, Mary Cowden, Eva Abrams, Julianne Wolfers, Anna Neff, Lucile Smith and Mrs. Blanche Hopkins.

After dinner the young ladies visited the Sequoia theatre and enjoyed the Oriental thrills of "The Young Rajah."

WOODSIDE CHIRPS

Mrs. Simon of Chatham, Ontario, and her daughter, Marjorie, were the guests of James Huddart last week, and this week, Mr. and Mrs. Newhall and Mrs. Hathaway of Berkeley are being entertained. There is no other estate in Woodside quite so attractive to the visitor as this place of the Huddarts. Consisting as it does of about twelve hundred acres and extending nearly to the top of the mountain ridge, it contains some of the finest redwood groves and some of the densest oak timber to be found in this vicinity.

Trails have been cut to all parts of the estate and, following these, one comes into wooded valleys, where one seems as far away from civilization as if he were in the King's River canyon, and a few moments after he emerges upon an open hill-top from which he can see the whole bay region from South San Francisco to San Jose. Add to this the charm of home itself and the whole hearted hospitality that goes with it, it is not to be wondered at that the Huddart home never lacks for guests.

Miss Louise Mahon came from Palo Alto to spend the week end with her uncle and aunt, Rev. and Mrs. Benjamin St. John.

Mr. and Mrs. Dowell of San Francisco were guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Audiffred on Sunday last.

Mr. and Mrs. George McArthur of San Francisco were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mighall over the week end.

A new house is being planned for P. A. Zane. J. R. Miller is the architect. It is said that the house when completed, will be one of the finest in Woodside. As the new house is to occupy the same site as the present one, the Zanes will probably live in Burlingame during its construction.

The old water tank and tower has been removed from the school yard. In the old days when the demand upon the Bear Gulch Water system exceeded the supply this tank was necessary as a storage reservoir, but since the installation of larger water mains, it had become useless and so it was decided to dismantle it.

Those boys of the Woodside school who are interested in gardening, a splendid object lesson immediately at hand for if any one can get better results from a garden patch than Peter Barnasque, he is yet to be found. He believes in plenty of fertilizer and the growing season for him is the whole year through.

I have been interested to note the tendency to build, re-build or remodel barns on many of our larger estates, and to note the increase in the number of horseback parties encountered on our country roads. A few years ago, in the first glow of enthusiasm over the automobile, it seemed that the horse had been thrown irrevocably into the discard and the barn gave way to the garage.

Of course, for utility along the line of rapid transportation, the horse can be no competitor of the automobile, but a great deal of pleasure and healthful exercise and much of the picturesque vanished with the passing of the horse.

I am minded of a lawn fete that was given last summer at one of the largest estates in Woodside. The guests arrived in limousines, of course, all of the Locomobile and Pierce Arrow varieties, (there were sixty or seventy of them) the occupants lounging upon the cushioned springs, shut in by the plate glass windows, in much careless comfort but I doubt if with much pleasure as any concerned. And the fete was as heavy as the conveyances in which the guests arrived.

Could not be but that of how much it lacked of those things that would have distinguished a similar affair in Washington's time. The high-stepping four-in-hands with tally-ho and out riders might have lacked something of the somnolent ease of the padded limousine but would have brought a natural tide of color to the cheeks and a stimulant to the mind and a sparkle to the conversation that was entirely lacking in this latter day affair.

I have driven a nifty horse-powered car at a greater speed than the law recognizes and if I were in haste for the doctor, I should want to do it again. But for genuine unalloyed pleasure, I should choose to throw my leg across the back of a good horse and strike for the woodland paths. And I, for one, believe that the saddle horse is bound to return to popularity and welcome him for healthful exercise, pure pleasure and a picturesque quality not attained by any machine yet built, from Ford to Locomobile.

BENEFIT FOR HOMELESS CHILDREN
The Native Sons and Native Daughters are planning a card party for Tuesday evening, January 30, in Foresters' hall. At this time the hope chest of the Native Daughters will be awarded and a big feed will follow the card party. Elaborate preparations have been made to make this party a success and a good time is assured to all who attend. The receipts will be for the benefit of the homeless children.

NEW OIL COMPANIES DEVELOPING COAST SIDE OIL FIELDS

High Grade of Crude Oil Being Pumped From San Mateo County Wells Attract Much Capital From Outside Sources

San Mateo county is attracting much interest among the oil men and considerable development is now under way in the hills about 14 miles from Redwood City.

Mr. Stuart, who is in our city in the interests of the "Elk Hills Oil Co." states that his company organized by Alameda business men have secured 2000 acres of proven oil land adjoining the Sage-Oleum Companies well that came in last fall.

This company's program includes the drilling of several wells and the construction of a refinery on their property. They have money enough in the treasury to drill two wells, one of which was started this week and drilling on the other will start in about fifteen days.

The oil produced in their district is of 52 gravity, and refines 70 per cent gasoline of very high quality, 7 per cent lubricating oil with paraffine base and a large percentage of petroleum ether.

This oil is worth over $5 per barrel at the well and being the only oil produced in the state with a paraffine base there is a big demand for it. There are several companies now constructing their derricks in that district preparatory to drilling and

AUGUST BERG SUCCUMBING TO INJURIES

August Berg, ex-city trustee of Burlingame, who was injured by an automobile last week, passed away Tuesday at the Mills Memorial Hospital, San Mateo. Mr. Berg was one of the best known and most highly respected men of San Mateo county. He was one of the earliest settlers of Burlingame and had unbounded faith in the future of that thriving municipality.

On coming to this section he went into the contracting business and among the buildings which he constructed was the San Mateo Masonic Temple and it was his dying request that he should be buried from that structure. He was for a number of years an official of the Pacific Rapid Transit Company and assisted every worthy project in his community.

He leaves a widow and a grown son and daughter to mourn his death.

The funeral was held Thursday and was under the auspices of the Masonic lodge of Burlingame. Rev. E. B. Lytle of San Francisco pronounced a touching eulogy after which the deceased was interred with all of the formalities of the Masonic craft.

MRS. ADOLPH GUGGLE ENTERTAINS

Mrs. Adolph Guggle of San Francisco entertained a number of her friends last Saturday afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Weller, on Edgewood Drive, Wellesley Park.

A dozen of Mrs. Guggle's former classmates at Sequoia accepted her invitation and a most pleasant afternoon was spent. In the evening refreshments were served which added materially to the pleasure of the occasion.

Those who were present were the Misses Consuelia Wright, Lynette Pauer, Alice Cullen, Lorraine Brown, Violet Curran, Claire Foley, Nida Lampkin, Helen Heiner, Marie Pauline O'Connell, Mercedes Pierce and the Mesdames Robert O'Connell, Will Boos and Adolph Guggle.

A NEW PAPER IN BURLINGAME

Last week the Burlingame Star made its first bow to the public. The Star is published by Horace Amphlett, editor of the San Mateo Times and is edited by Murphy McHenry. In its opening statement the Star states its policy as free from all outside influence and as being published in the interests of Burlingame and San Mateo County.

FILES STATEMENT OF EXPENSES

C. J. Coburn, who attempted to stage a write-in campaign in the supervisory election in the Fifth township and was a 11th hour opponent of Dr. C. V. Thompson, filed his statement of expenses Wednesday. According to this statement the campaign cost Mr. Coburn nothing.

District Attorney Swart this week named as his assistant William T. Sweigert of San Francisco. Sweigert is a young attorney and a graduate of St. Ignace College and Hastings Law School. The position of assistant district attorney was made vacant by the resignation of John Machado who is starting business for himself in San Jose.

Mrs. Irving J. Cooper entertained a small party of friends at her home last Thursday. The guest of honor was Miss Janet Ferguson, who is to marry Leonard Boyce next Wednesday.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 27, 1923

REV. C. H. STEVENS

Tomorrow evening Rev. C. H. Stevens will preach his farewell sermon to the people of Redwood City and next week will move to his new home in Lodi. We are sorry to see Mr. Stevens and his family leave our community. Ten years ago they came to us from San Rafael. During those ten years Mr. Stevens has been behind every movement which has been for the betterment of Redwood City. He has not confined his activities to his church affairs, but has taken part in the civic and educational activities of this section.

In his pastorate Mr. Stevens has naturally come into close relationship with the family life of his people. He has come to know them more intimately than most people know their neighbors for he has been in the homes when sickness has been there. He has been a comfort when death has made its visit and he has been ready to put his hand upon the head of the baby in the rights of baptism. So he has become an intimate part of the town. He has done good work in Redwood City. His people and church officers wanted him to remain and enjoy the new church which was dedicated last month. He felt that he could be of more service in Lodi than he could be in Redwood City; so he is making the change. Mrs. Stevens, also will be missed as she has willingly given her assistance when ever her wonderfully sweet voice was needed.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens will be missed in Redwood City. We wish them every success in Lodi.

THE JUVENILE HOME

Mrs. Haw, the matron of the Juvenile home made her report last week and a copy of it was published in our last issue. It was a short report and covered the disposition of the 134 children and 73 adult cases cared for. Not much can be shown with figures but the influence that Mrs. Haw has had upon her boys and girls will show all during their lives.

In most cases it was misfortune that brought the child to the home, but it was good fortune that brought the matron there. She has been a refining influence. She has talked and worked with her boys and girls and a significant part of the report is that 83 children or 62 per cent have been returned to their homes.

We are unable to say whether or not any of these 83 were sent back to the home, but we believe that there was not one such case.

We are glad also to note that only 7 out of the 134 were thought to be of such a character that it was necessary to send them to a state institution. This number would probably have been larger had it not been for Mrs. Haw and her influence.

THE SKYLINE BOULEVARD

Much talk and many editorial writings the last six years announced to the people of California that there would be a skyline boulevard running through San Mateo county, connecting Santa Cruz and San Francisco. Not only was this highway to be one of scenic beauty, but it was also to be one of military necessity. Our State Senator, Hon. M. B. Johnson, worked hard for the road and finally put it over in the State legislature. Then a bond issue was passed to take care of the proposition.

Rights of way were secured, surveys were made, and within the past year parts of the route have been constructed. Now we are informed that the money which was appropriated is nearly gone. We know it wasn't spent in this section of California. We hope that it will be replaced so that the project can be completed. We need the Skyline boulevard. San Francisco has to let its autists get out of the city sometimes. We have the country for them to admire. San Francisco pays a large part of the state taxes, so it should be given a few of the roads.

CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS

Did you ever stop to think about Christopher Columbus? He discovered the best piece of real estate that was ever located in the history of the world, but he forgot to tack up a location notice. Then Americus Vespucci, a merchant, came along and saw the place. Americus had a good advertising instinct. He knew what it meant to keep his name before the people so he wrote a good snappy advertisement and sold his name to the people and they tacked it onto the new country. No man has a right to say that times are bad. If he has anything to sell he should show it to the people and make his name stand for good goods. He should then put out a good line of advertising and he wouldn't have any spare time to talk about "rotten" business conditions.

TOLERATION

No man hath or ever had a right to persecute another for his belief; for there cannot be two antagonistic rights; and if one can persecute another, because he himself is satisfied that the belief of that other is erroneous, the other has, for the same reason, equally as certain a right to persecute him.

No evil hath so afflicted the world as intolerance of religious opinion. The human beings it has slain in various ways, if once and together brought to life, would make a nation of people; left to live and increase, would have doubled the population of the civilized portion of the globe; among which civilized portion it chiefly is that religious wars are waged. The treasure and the human labor thus lost would have made the earth, a garden, in which, but for his evil passions, man might now be as happy as in Eden.—Morals and Dogma.

SAN CARLOS ITEMS

All of his friends are glad when duck season rolls round and Guy Hall is forced to go to Colusa for his health. And they don't seem to care how many times he goes beyond the limit, and gets by the eagle eye of the game warden, so long as they get a whack at the big fat ducks. We don't know what we'll do when Guy gets too old to carry the rod and the gun, for we'll need fresh game feed, or goat glands worse than we do now.

In order to have them near his work, Mr. Rufus O. Cook has moved his family to Walnut Grove, California, where he is general auditor for the California Packing Company. Their new bungalow on Magnolia avenue is now for sale.

The Southern Pacific Company is doing all possible to encourage the practice of commuters buying their monthly tickets early in order to avoid the rush just before the archival of the train. Either by purchasing them before, or arriving early on the morning of the first, giving the agent, or his clerks ample time to serve every one and thus avoid the unpleasantness and large amount of extra work necessary in paying cash fare on trains and making refunds afterward. We have experienced but little difficulty along this line at San Carlos, regardless of our ever increasing population.

For every one seems to appreciate that our station agent-postmaster has grown grey in the service, his limbs are getting creaky, and he is inclined to grow more irritable, with less provocation than he used to in the hey-day of his life. And they don't like to see any one in San Carlos get up in the air, only when we are a little shy on diversion, when we may get a rise out of some one just for a change. But our religious policy in San Carlos is to keep every body smiling. Our citizens don't want to pay cash fares on the train, or buy their commute tickets at the Third street station, San Francisco, for they want the record of dropping all their money in San Carlos, even though it may be remitted to the S. P. Treasury at San Francisco on the following train for safe keeping.

Through their organization, the Parent-Teachers Association, our ladies have been doing more to put San Carlos on the map and give it its place in the sun than any other movement or element in the community. The women have made the Parent-Teachers Association a live, active force since it was first organized about three years ago and Mrs. Frank J. Johnson, Sr., was elected president. Last Friday afternoon the San Mateo County Parent-Teachers held their monthly meeting here, when the entertainment of the local organization put on a very interesting and delightful program for the entertainment of the visiting delegates from all parts of the county.

Dance—Lucille De Velchow, accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Hulbert.

At this meeting the local organization made a change in their by-laws by which the plan of voting will conform to that of the district and state organizations.

To aid in membership campaigns the federation has adopted a neat and attractive placard, bearing the letters P. T. A. in large type, which are to be handed to all new members who enlist at the time of one of the membership drives. The local clubs will purchase their supply of these cards from the treasurer, Mrs. Emmet Jones of Burlingame, who has been authorized to order 1000 cards for that purpose.

Mrs. A. W. Colby, chairman of Patriotism and Founder's Day, reported plans for making February a special month and offered definite suggestions to those who arrange programs for such occasions.

It was announced that the district chairman's meeting would be held at Hotel Whitcomb, San Francisco, next Wednesday afternoon. And the district convention of the federation would be held at San Rafael on April 12th and 13th.

The next meeting of the county federation will go to Rummymede on the afternoon of Friday, February 16th.

The San Carlos ladies will take notice that the next regular meeting of the local organization is Wednesday, Jan. 31st. Please be on hand and help to carry on the work. Mrs. Andrew J. Johnston, the president of the club, who has given so much splendid organization, should be of her time and effort toward the maintenance and upbuilding of this given every assistance possible by the membership.

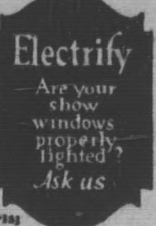

Mrs. W. J. Walters has taken apartments in San Francisco for the winter, coming down to San Carlos for the week ends only. Since the death of her husband some months ago, Mrs. Walters has decided to sell the new bungalow on the corner of Chestnut and Cypress streets, which was completed only a few months prior to Mr. Walters' death.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Buckley have moved from San Francisco to San Carlos and are occupying quarters at the Hurlburt apartments.

Duck Hunting Reminiscences

By CLAUDE FOX

The tide was now strong on the flood and rising rapidly. It would soon be time for us to hoist anchor and start southward. But the captain had to be taken into consideration. If he did not get to go we surely would not get under way and that particular morning he was in such a state of mind that it was impossible to tell just what would happen next.

It was therefore an agreeable surprise when Tommy shouted out that he thought we had better get started. The anchor came up with a rush the mainsail was hoisted and under a light southeasterly air we headed seaward for No. 1 beacon. I went back into the cabin to clean up the breakfast dishes while George remained on deck to help Tommy work the sloop into the channel. As the wind was not very strong and we were bucking an incoming tide, our progress was rather slow.

We had decided to have a duck dinner out of three of the teal George had killed, so it fell to my lot to prepare them for the oven while George was helping the captain. Often having seen men prepare the birds for roasting at home, I soon had the dressing ready and the little green wings stuffed so they looked like pointer pigeons. I made one mistake, however, and used red instead of black pepper for seasoning, and I laughed to myself as I thought of how Tommy would explode should he happen to notice what I had done. There was consolation in the possibility that he was just as liable not to note the difference as there was that he would. I told George that I had got hold of the wrong pepper can and we both agreed that if it would not injure us it could not hurt our little cranky captain.

George wished to superintend the cooking of the ducks so when I stepped out on deck and told him the birds were ready he relinquished his place as first mate to me and dove down into the cabin to perform his culinary labors.

We had nearly reached the beacon when I came on deck and in fifteen minutes more we had passed it and laid our course southeast. The southerly air which had been blowing died flat, and we drifted along down the channel on the flood tide. Just after we had cleared the shell banks there came down the bay from the northward that purring sound which indicates to every navigator that a breeze is coming and looking up I could plainly see half a mile away a long line of rippling water and I knew we would soon be heading to our destination at a good clip.

The captain seemed to be a shade better than he was when he first arose so I vouchsafed the information that we would soon have some wind. I had misjudged Tommy's condition. His eyelight was none the best and he neglected to hear the slight rumbling sound which indicated the coming of the breeze.

"You are a hell of a weather prophet," he threw back at me, "there is not a cloud in the sky and no man ever saw a wind under such conditions."

I only aggravated him more by replying, "Oh, yes, I have when us boys used to fly our kites in March. I have seen it blow a gale with the sky a perfect baby blue."

"Wait until I get my pipe Tommy and I will be out in a minute to help you, as possibly you may need some assistance."

"Devil a bit will I need," was his only answer.
Stopping down into the cabin I secured my pipe and tobacco, informed George that we would be safely at anchor in the San Francisco creek by twelve o'clock and went out on deck. Already the main sheet rope was rattling in the blocks as the boom swung out to port and the sloop was soon showing her heels in a wake of foam.

"For once you were right," said the captain, and I failed to see the necessity of making any reply.

The little fellow grew more amiable and talkative as the craft bowed along under the freshening wind and he even had the temerity to ask me if he was steering the right course.

"Yes," I answered, "Hold straight on a line toward the sun and we will pass the Cooley landing two hundred yards away."

"She is some yacht," said Tommy, as he loaded up his little black pipe. I felt like telling him she would be if she only had a balloon jib, topsail, jigger mast and a few other necessary requirements, but the thought struck me it would be better to let well enough alone, especially while he was evincing a more friendly frame of mind.

The wind held steady and Green Point was soon off our port bow. George took a look out of the cabin to see how we were progressing. Already the scent of the savory teal was being wafted up to us through the open hatchway, and in view of the fact that Tommy had partaken of no breakfast I concluded that the coming dinner would put him in fine fettle, but I recounted a little too previous. Other things were about to intervene.

Now to tell the truth the sloop, or yacht, as the captain would have called, was built on good lines and he could hit up a fair pace, but she was as old as the hills, in fact had seen better days, was leaking some and there was a seam on the starboard side just abaft the mainmast, which had some time previous opened up considerably, and which Tommy had patched up in some sort of way with cement. If the vessel should strain herself too much while sailing that cement patch was liable to drop out and if it did I was very much in doubt whether we could keep her free of water with the old rickety pumps installed for that very purpose.

The wind had become stronger and we were running directly before it. Tommy, of course, would not relinquish the tiller to either George or myself as he had ideas about handling the craft that were strictly his own. Cooler's landing was opposite and if everything went well we would soon be at our destination. In passing into the San Francisco creek from the bay a turn has to be made at almost right angles. On the north side of the entrance is a large sand and mud flat made by the continued freshets year after year and care has to be taken to keep strictly in the channel, if you do not wish to fetch up high and dry. We had been on a straight course before the wind with the main sail swung out to port and of course, when we made the turn to enter the creek the sail would jibe over the starboard and suddenly throw all the strain on that side of the sloop. Visions of that seam opening up and depositing the cement patch in the bottom of the bay floated through my mind. Stopping down into the cabin, I informed George we were nearly to the mouth of the creek, reminding him of the bad seam with its cement patch and suggested that we advise Tommy when we reached a point opposite the creek to head up into the wind and come about instead of jibing his mainsail. George agreed that it would be a good idea, but he did not think Tommy would do as we wished.

"You better speak to him," said George, as he deftly basted the ducks, which were almost done, perhaps you can handle him better than I can." But George took a second thought and came out on deck to assist me in becoming a convincer. We both failed utterly in our endeavors. The captain would have none of it in the sailing maneuvers of his "yacht." She was going to head into that creek in majestic style of true seamanship. Discretion was to be thrown to the wind.

"All right," I said to Tommy, but remember if that seam opens this yacht of yours is not going to float very long with all the pig iron and rock ballast you have got under the flooring."

We were now opposite the mouth of the creek and the captain threw the tiller hard over to make the turn. Had he taken a little more time things would have been different, but he was nursing a sore spot and was bound to have his own way. The main boom came over with a bang that shook the old boat from bow to stern, while the sheet rope clattered through the blocks with an ominous sound that portended no good. Ten minutes more and we came to anchor where the creek forks. As the mainsail was being lowered the captain called out:

"That's the way to bring her in," as proudly as a peacock exhibiting his brilliant hued feathers.

"Perhaps so," I called back, "but I'll tell you better when I sound the well."

Then the dark clouds of discontent gathered rapidly.

Tommy's seamanship had done the trick, the seam had opened, the cement patch was down in Davy Jones' locker and it was a case of man the pump until we could beach the craft in the little gravel creek up at the old landing.

NEWS OF MENLO PARK

Notwithstanding the inclement weather of Wednesday evening there was a large attendance at the meeting in the Hall of the Nativity called to plan a St. Patrick's evening of entertainment. George Walsh was chosen chairman. He will co-operate with the various committees in securing talent and arranging a suitable program. The committee on talent promises a rare treat in vaudeville show. The committee of arrangement and talent is composed of the following: Mrs. Mahoney, Mrs. Harrington, Mrs. Derry, John Morey, J. H. Sullivan and Chas. McCracken.

John Cahalan passed away in San Francisco on Saturday last at the ripe old age of 80 years. Up until a short time ago he resided here with his son, Ray. The Cahalans were the first to enter the town of Tonopah, Nevada, when that thriving camp was established a number of years ago. The family lived there for many years and was prosperous. Mr. Cahalan, proprietor of the Menlo shoe store, knew the family when he conducted a big shoe store there. Mr. Cahalan spent the greater portion of his life in Nevada. A deceased son at one time was surveyor-general of the state. The elder Cahalan was quite prominent in politics in the early mining excitement of the state.

The numerous friends of C. H. Williamson, the well-known insurance broker who maintains an attractive home in Menlo Park, noticed his broad smile as he boarded the 7:45 train Monday morning. On inquiry it was learned that the cause of his happiness was the arrival of a son at the Palo Alto hospital on that morning. Mother and baby are doing nicely.

Elfrida Johanson, wife of Harry A. Johanson, passed away on Tuesday from heart affection. She was ill for only a short period. Besides her husband the deceased is survived by three children, Raymond, Janette and Florence Johanson. The deceased was a native of Sweden. The funeral took place on Wednesday. Interment was in Woodlawn cemetery. Mr. Johanson is a taxi driver for the Camp Garage.

"When Knighthood was in Flower." This wonderful historical pageant at the Menlo Theatre, Wednesday, January 31. Matinee at 2:30. Evening show at 7:45.

Father George L. Lacombe, beloved pastor of the Mayfield and Portola Catholic churches, was recently appointed chaplain of the assembly at Sacramento. Father Lacombe was the chaplain of the 347th artillery during the World war with the rank of captain. Yesterday further honors came to the devoted priest when he was appointed chaplain of the 21st Division Organized Reserves, U. S. Army at the Presidio, by Major General Charles G. Morton, Ninth Corps Area commander. Father Lacombe is a native of San Francisco, and was formerly stationed at Mission Dolores. After the war he was an advisory member of the staff of "The Examiner," Soldier's Service Bureau for more than a year.

Menlo Parlor, N. D. G. W. will give a card party for the benefit of the homeless children on Monday evening, February 12, in Native Sons hall. A pair of hand embroidered pillowcases will be first prize and several pieces of hand work for other prizes. Admission 25 cents. The hall will be heated on that evening. It is a worthy cause and a large crowd is expected.

NOTICE

APPLICATION FOR LEAVE TO CONSTRUCT AND OPERATE A TOLL BRIDGE

NOTICE is hereby given that on Monday, the 12th day of March, 1923, at the hour of 10:00 o'clock A. M. of said day, or as soon thereafter as said application can be heard, the undersigned, JOHN LYLE HARRINGTON, will make application to the Board of Supervisors of the County of San Mateo, State of California, at the chambers of said Board of Supervisors, in the County Court House in the City of Redwood City, County of San Mateo, California, for authority and license, and for a franchise from said Board of Supervisors to said JOHN LYLE HARRINGTON, his heirs and assigns, to construct, operate and maintain a toll bridge across San Francisco Bay, said bridge to be located across San Francisco Bay at points thereon beginning at the Eastern Shore of San Francisco Bay near the mouth of Bear Creek in Alameda County, thence Southwesterly approximately parallel to the Southern Pacific Railroad bridge across Dumbarton Straits and three fourths of a mile, more or less distant therefrom Northwesterly, across San Francisco Bay to the Western Shore thereof, in the County of San Mateo, State of California. Said bridge to have an approximate length of about 5500 feet from shore line to shore line, and a breadth of not less than twenty-four feet.

Dated: January 26th, 1923.

Being ignorant is not so much a shame as being unwilling to learn. Who is wise? He that learns from every one. Who is powerful? He that governs his passions. Who is rich? He that is content.

On Thursday evening, February 1, Menlo Parlor, No. 211, N. D. G. W. will be installed with Menlo Parlor No. 185 N. D. G. W. in the Native Sons hall. District Deputy Josephine Quillfeld will install with District Deputy Harold Heister and a team of eight from Redwood City. A pleasant evening is assured. The officers for the ensuing term are: President, Gertrude Kavanaugh; Vice President, Florence Gilbert; 2nd Vice President, Ethel Morton; 3rd Vice President, Eleanor O'Keefe; Past President, Josephine Quillfeld; Marshal, J. Bowles; Rec. Secretary, Frances E. Maloney; Fin. Secretary, L. Derry; Organizer, Annie Doyle; Trustees: Mrs. Kavanaugh and Adelaide Blanchard; Inside Sentinel, Elva Lawlor.

J. B. Leonard, a former resident of Menlo Park, is to be the engineer of the Coyote Point bridge, if it is to be constructed. Mr. Leonard is one of the most skillful structural engineers in the country. The building of this mammoth bridge is a gigantic undertaking, but Mr. Leonard is fully equipped both by experience and learning to perform the task.

The Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce met in regular session Monday evening to hear the report of the committee of five appointed some weeks ago to investigate the telephone company's activities here and to provide ways and means of compelling the company to restore the pre-war conditions when no tolls were charged between Redwood City and Menlo Park. A meeting has been scheduled for next week with the merchants of Redwood City and the Chamber of Commerce there to discuss the question and to appoint a committee to take the matter before the Railroad Commission. This long suffering community may get redress there, perhaps.

Best Clute, a former station agent here, but now a telegrapher in the San Francisco fire department, called on friends last Sunday.

It is rumored that the local ice plant has been purchased by the Union Ice Company of San Francisco who control the ice business of the peninsula. The local concern is to be operated separately and is to supply the local demand.

A Ford automobile was wrecked by a south-bound train at Atherton Wednesday evening. In some unaccountable way the machine was caught between the tracks and before the occupants could extricate it the train was upon them and it was abandoned. It is said to be a "hoose" auto and the two men in it were delivering liquor to customers. It may that the whiskey and gasoline became mixed and the old Ford refused to perform its usual duties in its accustomed manner. Maybe.
